

Introducing the new Environmental & Explosives Safety webpage

Published 7/29/2008

Our new webpage takes a few steps beyond the ordinary Mission/Objectives/ Contacts content, to include information relating to explosives safety training, environmental topics, tactical explosives safety, transportation issues, links to explosives safety related areas, and information of general interest to Explosives Safety Officers (ESO).

Our intent is the creation of a dynamic and evolving webpage to serve and inform the base ESO. In the near future we hope to include Explosives Safety Inspection data and information, and a variety of correspondence examples and templates for the use of base ESO's. In the longer term our intent is to enable the base ESO to directly link to our various databases to analyze trends, track training, and provide direct input. Our goal is to provide the ESO with a creative tool to enhance interaction and communication among ESO's and between ESO's and Program managers.
